General Clark and the Tradition of the American Army

Every nation worthy of the name has a military tradition, but the narrative of a episode of self-governing men is to make sure that the military remains subordinate to civil rule — and fits easily and naturally into civilian life in times of peace.

Nowhere is this tradition better exemplified than in the United States, whose rank-and-file military surgeon is drawn from the civil population and whose professional officer class has a long record of private civilian accomplishments after retirement from uniform.

Latest development in this long tradition is the announcement that Gen. Mark W. Clark, former supreme Allied commander in the Far East, who retires from the army this Saturday, will become president of Citadel college at Charleston, S. C.

The greatest example of all, of course, was Robert E. Lee, which after the Confederacy's defeat devoted the rest of his life to the education of a new generation of Southerners.

There is something magnificently wholesome about a country which believes in peace yet remains prepared for war, and whose military machine is really an integral part of civilian life instead of something remote from it. America did not originate this idea by any means—we are simply its great exponent today.

Ancient Rome had the same idea: To remain powerful in arms, but with the military subordinate to the orders of the Roman Senate. And while Romans clung to this tradition Rome was all-powerful, when she discarded it Rome fell—lost in the mistakes of one-man rule, groom old and careless.

Nor is America alone with her idea today. Great Britain is like us; in fact our tradition came from her. And the Swiss, the Swedes and the Dutch are other examples of an independent and resourceful people who insist that their military be strong and at the same time an integral part of the civilian population and government.

Missionary to India to Speak Here

The Rev. Lester Finley, Missionary to India, now on furlough, will speak in the First Methodist Church Hope, Arkansas Wednesday, Nov. 4 at 7:30 p. m. He will illustrate his lectures with colored slides. Dr. Finley, whose home is in Rochester, N. Y., has been serving in the Gujarat conference in India since 1947. The First Methodist Church of Jonesboro sponsored his five-year mission and paid three-fourths of his salary as an "Advance Special." He and Mrs. Finley with their three daughters, (two of whom were born in India,) returned to the United States in December and will return to Baroda next February.

During his five year mission in Gujarat, Dr. Finley's work was primarily of a rural nature. Most of his time was spent in visiting the small outlying villages. During the last year he was District Superintendent of the Gujarat Conference, which is an area of about 500 miles. Of the five superintendents in India, he was the only one not native born. He has just completed a speaking tour of the Methodist churches in North Arkansas Conference, and begun his schedule in the Little Rock conference at First Methodist Church in Little Rock on Sunday morning, October 23, 1953.

Atomic Age Here For Fighting Ships

LONDON (AP)—The use of atomic ships and guided missiles probably will alter completely the makeup of a fleet operation of future navies, according to Jane's Fighting Ships, an authoritative British naval publication.

The new 1953-54 edition of Jane's, published yesterday, said it is likely, also, there will be greater specialization in the duties of future ships. The jack-of-all-trades warship will be out of date. "The construction of the first atomic powered vessels, namely the large U. S. submarines Nautilus and Sea Wolf marks the beginning of a new era of propulsion," said Jane's. These atomic vessels, it declared, "can have far-reaching effects not only in the field of naval architecture but also on military strategy in general and naval tactics in particular."

To Widen P. B. River Bridge

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Highway Commission today authorized widening of the roadway on the Arkansas River bridge at Pine Bluff at an estimated cost of $10,000.

The bridge, a part of Highway 79, is only one lane wide and traffic over it has to alternate. The roadway will be reconstructed to provide for two lanes.

Pentagon May Need Help From Dr. Mayo

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon may call in Dr. Charles W. Mayo, noted surgeon and United Nations delegate, to help analyze Communist techniques for wringing "confessions" from captured American fighting men.

This far-flung examination is directed at all aspects of one of the most involved and delicate problems to confront the Defense Department.

It is an exploration of the cases of 10 American ex-prisoners who repudiated "confessions" they said were made to fend off starvation and brutality, as well as of the cases of five airmen who defied Communist pressure.

Filmed statements of the 15 men made to American interrogators upon their return from captivity, were released to the public by the Pentagon last night.

In addition, there were four films made by the Communists of "confessions." These films reached American hands through propaganda channels.

The idea that leading medical experts, like Dr. Mayo, should be asked to help the Pentagon analyze Red interrogation techniques has not been finally approved. It is still in the suggestion and study stage.

One of the five airmen the Pentagon said defied their tormentors was Capt. William M. Preston of Batavia, N. Y. He told of a Communist interrogation camp nicknamed "Pak's Palace," after the North Korean major who ran it—"the most barbaric, evil, vicious man I have ever met."

Preston said questioning sometimes lasted 20 hours a day. He said he was beaten, cursed and spat at. He said many high-ranking Russians visited the camp and made no attempt to conceal their nationality.

"I think they felt that none of the U. N. prisoners that were there would ever get back to our own country," Preston said.

Prisoners Do Not Want Red Rule Again

By JOHN RANDOLPH

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Long-defiant anti-Communist Korean war prisoners marched from their compounds today and with shouts, kicks and screaming curses overwhelmingly told Communist explainers they will not go back to Red rule.

By late afternoon only 20 of 430 North Koreans had elected to go back to the Communists, an Indian spokesman said.

The Koreans came out peacefully to meet Red persuaders after two weeks of negotiations with Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

But once before the explainers, most of the POWs were anything but peaceful.

As many as four Indian guards were assigned to each prisoner, but frequently this wasn't enough. One enraged prisoner broke free and hurled a folding chair into the faces of three smartly-uniformed explainers. All were slightly injured.

In at least two instances prisoners kicked over field tables used by the Communists.

Almost all of them screamed shouted and spat at the Communist agents. They writhed and struggled in the tight grips of Indian soldiers.

"You sons of dogs," the prisoners screamed.

"You traitors."

"You want to make us dogs of the Russians."

"You Chinese foreign gooks!"

"We will come back and kill you all!"

Indian guards forced prisoners to listen to the explanations as long as the Reds wanted to talk—or until it became obvious that the issue was decided.

Some interviews lasted only 30 seconds. Others continued for nearly two hours.

Federal Judge Dismissed Case

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Federal Judge Carl Hatch has dismissed a charge of wearing an army uniform illegally.

Charles Edward Collins, 18, told the judge he donned the clothes believing they would help him hitchhike from Battle Creek, Mich., to see a sick relative in California.

Hatch said he himself might be guilty. He said he wore an old khaki shirt his son, a former Air Force pilot, discarded.

Brother of Hope Woman Dies in Texas

Word was received here late Friday of the death October 22 of Melville R. Jackson, 59, in a Veterans Hospital in Temple, Texas. He was the brother of Miss Olive Jackson of Hope.

A native of Arkadelphia, Mr. Jackson was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Jackson. He was a veteran of World War one.

Funeral services will be held at the Barton Funeral Home in El Dorado at 4 p. m. Sunday. He is survived by another sister, Mrs. H. L. Petty of Marianna, Ark.

Commies in Korea Taking a Beating

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communists in Korea, looking worse every day by their own doing—but with some assists from the United States—are taking a beating in the psychological war.

Humiliated by their own countrymen who refused to return home after being captured, the Communists by a nakedly cruel proposal gave a good insight into why so many Red prisoners rejected repatriation.

This was in their demand that the prisoners be forced—even though it might require shooting hundreds of them as a terror tactic—to listen to Communist explainers why they should return.

And this week the United States added to this picture of Communist savagery with two reports on the mental and physical torture and murder used by the Communists on the United Nations soldiers they captured.

Under the Korean armistice agreement covering prisoners who refused to go home, 5,000 Indian troops were brought into Korea to guard these prisoners on both sides. This was to be the program.

The Communists would be permitted to talk face to face with the 16,500 Chinese and 3,000 North Koreans who had been captured by the U. N. and refused repatriation. The U. N. would be allowed to do the same with the 335 South Koreans, 23 Americans and 1 Briton who had been captured by the Communists and chose to remain with them.

These repatriation talks were under the supervision of a special international group set up as the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission (NNRC), whose members are:

Sweden and Switzerland, both truly neutral in the war; Poland and Czechoslovakia, only theoretically neutral since both are Communist; and India, whose only contribution to the war was a medical unit.

The Communists talked to 921 Chinese and persuaded only 20, or 2 per cent to return. Many of the others roundly cursed the Red "explainers" and suggested they too get away from communism while the getting was good.

The North Koreans rioted when the Indian troops sought to bring them before the "explainers."

The Communists, confessed lovers of mankind, demanded that the North Koreans be brought before them. The Indian custodians, who might have had to kill hundreds, refused. The Swiss and Swedish members of NNRC also were opposed.

The U. N., in what seems like a shrewd maneuver, hadn't tried to talk to a single U. N. prisoner captured by the Communists. The U. N. may have decided to hold back while the world concentrated its attention on the Communists' humiliation.

This week the world got a scientific explanation of Communist barbarism. Dr. Charles Mayo, famous surgeon and American delegate to the U. N. in New York went before the U. N. with an analysis of Communist technique—mental torture, including threats of death—in making U. N. prisoners "confess" war crimes.

Yesterday the Army's war crimes division followed up with a report that an estimated 29,815 persons, including 6,113 American prisoners, had been tortured and slaughtered by the Communists during the war—not to extract confessions, but through savagery.

Examples of these Communist war crimes included: eyes gouged out; feet chopped off; men used for bayonet practice; prisoners sitting in a ditch killed with burp guns by their guards—what the Army called "all the sickening details of horror."

STOPPED BY REDLIGHT
OGDEN, Utah (AP)—Police officers Vern Lundgren and Don Muelter, returning from an investigation into the theft of a power saw, stopped a car that ran a red light. The two men in the car that ran a red light. The two men in the car had sawdust on their pants, the officers observed.

Under questioning, they admitted the theft.

Federal Grand Jury Indicts Kidnappers

KANSAS CITY (AP) Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady partners in the abduction of little Bobby Greenlease, were indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday on kidnapping charges.

They are expected to be arraigned early next week, possibly Monday, Edward L. Scheffler, U.S. attorney, has said he will press for an early trial.

Bobby, the 6-year-old son of a wealthy Kansas City automobile dealer, was taken from his exclusive school Sept. 28. He was slain and his body was found in a lime-filled grave in the yard of Mrs. Heady's home at St. Joseph, Mo.

Hall, 34, and Mrs. Heady, 41-year-old divorcee, were arrested in St. Louis Oct. 6. Hall admitted slaying the child after Mrs. Heady took the boy from his school on a ruse.

The jury heard four days of testimony. The indictment pointed out the kidnapped child was not returned unharmed, making the defendants liable to the death penalty. If the two should enter pleas of guilty the judge could request a maximum penalty should be inflicted.

400 Attending Oil, Gas Meet

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—About 400 oil operators are attending the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association's annual division meeting which opened here today.

F. M. Porter of Oklahoma City, president of the American Petroleum Institute, is principal speaker of the two-day meeting.

One of the officials, in a speech to the Mobile Rotary Club yesterday, criticized Mississippi's oil tax system.

Edward W. Kenna of Jackson, Miss., executive vice president of the Mississippi-Alabama Division of the Association, said: "Mississippi had a good climate for oil production, but has the highest tax rate per barrel in the country."

He later said he had in mind the severance tax law and the state income tax law involving depletion allowance. Both Louisiana and Alabama—with 27 per cent depletion allowances for state income tax purposes—are more liberal than Mississippi, he said.

Reds Reject Dean's New Plan for Talks

By SAM SUMMERLIN

PANMUNJOM (AP)—American Ambassador Arthur H. Dean today proposed a "flexible" agenda to speed up talks for arranging a Korean peace conference but the Communists immediately rejected it as "slight of hand."

The diplomats debated an hour and three minutes, got nowhere for the sixth straight day and called it quits until Monday.

Dean told newsmen he was not depressed over the lack of headway in his week of talks with the Communists to set up the Korean peace parity.

He said he still feels the Reds want the conference and "it is not surprising that it has taken us some time to get shaken down on a working basis."

Dean proposed a "flexible or unnumbered agenda" under which the negotiators could skip around among various problems that must be settled before the political conference can convene.

The American envoy's plan would allow the diplomats to side-step tough issues, settle easy matters and then come back to those still unsolved.

Mother, Baby Fine But Rest of Family?

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mother and baby are doing nicely—but the rest of the family...
Oh.

Mrs. Stanley SMITH, 21, started it all off by telling her husband she was going to have her baby in a little while. Smith took it from there.

He and friend Anthony Luce took off in Luce's convertible to get a doctor.

Too late, the baby arrived—so Smith's brother Charles took off in his car to get the doctor's office, delivered the message and started back home. Halfway there he collided with a Reading Railroad freight train.

Along came Stanley and Luce in the other car and brother Charles hopped in and away they went—for two blocks, where Luce's machine collided with an oil truck, then with a tractor trailer, then caught fire.

Police and firemen arrived, extinguished the blaze, and saw brother Charles off to Northeast Hospital, where he was treated for minor injuries.

P. S. It was a girl.

Equal Rights For Russian Women Out

By RICHARD R. KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—The ladies of the Soviet Union are not getting an even break from their menfolk and Kremlin overlords are not happy about it.

Wife beating, polygamy and child brides are under fire. Such practices, says Pravda, Communist party organ, are in violation of one of the keystones of Communist policy: equal rights for women.

Actually, equal rights for women in Russia is more theory than practice. Female workers do most of the heavy work on Soviet farms and a good part of it in Soviet industry. Moscow street-cleaning gargons are heavily staffed with women. Not many Soviet women reach positions high in the government.

But Pravda says such "feudal practices" as plural marriages, wife beating and the like, must go. Things are especially bad in the Soviet republic of Uzbekistan, where Moslems make up a large part of the population. Authorities there, Pravda warns, are behind the times with "a wrong attitude toward women."

Pravda bears down on one reported case involving one Kemal Rakhimov, a "certified teacher of philology, a good chap in the opinion of his drinking pals, but, in reality, a petty man."

Kemal laid siege some time ago to the heart of a student of his, a busman lass by the name of Khalima Akmedov.

Said Pravda: "With what heartfelt shyness and pure joy did Khalima meet Kemal. She sang the finest songs for him. She read beautiful poetry to him."

And then they were married. Things went along fine at first. Then Kemal started stepping out—without Khalima. There were fights. Then Kemal made his big mistake, at least as far as Pravda is concerned. He took a whip to his wife and turned her out in the street.

own officials' heard about it, but didn't take action Pravda tells why: "They were having troubles with their own multiple wives and their hands were full."

Judge Still Likes Marilyn Monroe

BAITIMORE (AP)—Judge Herman M. Moser told the chairman of the State Board of Motion Picture Censors yesterday that "Marilyn Monroe standing still is more suggestive than anything I saw in 'The Moon Is Blue.'"

The judge made his observation at a Circuit Court hearing of an appeal by United Artists Corp. from a statewide ban on the film, "The Moon Is Blue." The board called the movie "indecent" and "immoral."

Sydney R. Traub, board chairman, said at the hearing he considered it "suggestive—a little off color." That evoked Judge Monroe, who starred in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," which passed the Maryland censors intact.

Thugs Work Ruse At Two Hotels

BUTTE, Mont. (AP)—Somebody called three hotels early yesterday and said smoke was streaming from top floor windows. While night clerks in two of the hotels investigated the report, thieves cleaned out the tills. They got about $220.

The scheme backfired at the third hotel, however. A porter remained at the desk to give the alarm in case of fire.

New York Milk Strike Ends To Day

NEW YORK (AP)—About 20 New Jersey milk dealers assembled here today on receiving word from the union that contracts were about ready to be signed in the metropolitan area's six-day-old milk strike.

What the development meant could not be determined immediately. There have been almost daily reports of optimism, which later soured, in the strike of 13,000 drivers and plant workers.

The wage-hour dispute has resulted in 12 million persons in the New York-New Jersey region being cut off from the five-million quarts of fluid milk they normally drink each day.

One Jersey dealer said today that he and others had been approached separately by the union the P. I. International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and had been offered individual contracts.

However, a union official said his group "does not want to be a party to splitting the dealers" and that 80 cents divided the union and all dealers from agreement. Some 200 firms are involved in the walk-out.

The New Jersey milk dealers gathered at the Hotel Commodore as round-the-clock sessions between the regular union and company negotiating teams continued at City Hall.

O'Day Woman Seeks to Get Out of Jail

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Sandra June O'Day, St. Louis woman held as a material witness in the Greenlease kidnapping case, today sought her release from jail on a writ of habeas corpus.

Her attorney filed the writ with U. S. District Judge Richard M. Duncan, alleging the hefty strawberry blonde is being unlawfully held with no criminal charge against her.

Judge Duncan set a hearing for 9:15 a. m. Monday Nov. 2. The woman was arrested here Oct. 7, after the apprehension of Carl Austin Hall, with whom she had spent a night, and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, confessed kidnappers of six-year-old Bobby Greenlease.

She has been held in the county jail here under a $10,000 bond. Yesterday she spent two hours before the federal grand jury which is investigating the kidnapping.

London Turns Out For Queen

LONDON (AP)—London's diplomatic corps turned out in best bib and tucker last night for its main social event of the year—Queen Elizabeth's dazzling presentation party at Buckingham Palace.

The Duke of Edinburgh and Prime Minister Churchill were on hand, both wearing full evening dress with knee britches and the emblem of the Garter, Britain's oldest order of chivalry.

The Queen wore a dress of pale green and pink tulle with a spray of pink artificial roses on her left shoulder and a diamond tiara, necklace and earrings.

Says Crisis Due to Teacher's Fear

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Fear in the hearts of some teachers is causing the greatest crisis in American education, publisher Hodding Carter of Greenville, Miss., declared last night.

Addressing the opening session of the Oklahoma Education Association the editor and publisher of the Delta Democrat-Times called the fear "the gravest domestic danger that faces the United States."

A school board member, Carer said he saw parents "almost in a sob" denounce his superintendent as a scoundrel because he had attended teachers college at Columbia University.

He said teachers are so frightened by public and political criticism they are "afraid to 'speak out' against demagoguery."

Marshall Gets Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall, symbol of American generosity to a war-torn world, has been awarded the 1953 Nobel peace prize. The 1952 prize—not given out last year—went to Albert Schweitzer, world-famous philosopher, musician and missionary.

The awards were announced last night by the Norwegian Nobel Institute. The five-member selection board, following tradition, assigned no reason for its choices.

The prizes were set up under the will of Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite. He specified that the peace award should go to the candidate "who has worked the most or the best for promoting brotherhood among people, and for the abolition or reduction of the standing armies, and for the establishment and spread of peace congresses."

Marshall, now 72, sprang into world fame as army chief of staff during World War II. As secretary of State he later was instrumental in organizing a 17 billion dollar aid campaign to restore the economies of Europe.

In a statement issued at his winter home in Pinehurst, N. C., where he is convalescing from a flu attack, Marshall said "This award is a great distinction and honor for which I am deeply grateful."

At the White House, President Eisenhower was described as delighted over the honor to Marshall, his wartime boss.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, who won the 1950 peace prize for his work as a United Nations mediator in the Palestine war, declared both Marshall and Schweitzer were "excellent choices and highly merit the award." Bunche was the 11th and last previous American to win the prize.

Defense Forces Expanded in Japan

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Japan have agreed on a new expansion of Japanese defense forces with American weapons and equipment—but there were signs of some dissatisfaction on both sides.

Japanese officials contend the buildup can only take place too slowly to please American officials.

Apparently the Japanese would have been willing to go for a larger total if the United States had promised substantial economic assistance. But the United States was unwilling to do this.

Instead, an official statement jointly issued late yesterday said the United States would sell Japan 50 million dollars worth of surplus food—probably rice and wheat—for Japanese yen. The United States will use those yen to promote a defense industry in Japan by buying arms and military equipment there and by direct investment.

In four weeks of negotiations climaxed by the statement American representatives argued that Japan needs ground forces—totaling 325,000 to 350,000 men—as soon as possible. The present Japanese national safety force, armed and equipped by the United States, totals only 110,000.

Man Buried Money Now It's Gone

BALDWIN PARK, Calif. (AP)—A 39-year-old machinist, Carley J. Purcell, planned to buy a house. He cashed in a $10,000 life insurance policy for $7,000, he told police, then some bonds he had accumulated.

He wanted the money where he could get it in a hurry. So he buried it under his garage. Yesterday he decided to take a look at his cache. It was gone.

Gasped Mrs. Purcell, 36, his wife of 11 years: "I didn't know he had that much money."

Obscene Word Brings Firing of Announcer

WASHINGTON (UP) — Radio station WWDC today dismissed an announcer who uttered an obscene word over a network last night during a broadcast by Fulton Lewis, Jr., over the Mutual Broadcasting System.

The station apologized to Lewis for what it called an "accidental" yet "inadvertent and inexcusable remark." It asked Lewis to extend the apology to his listeners.

Ben Strouse, vice president and general manager of WWDC, telegraphed Lewis that the incident was accidental in nature in that the announcer assigned to the program thought there had been a broadcasting line failure.

The incident occurred immediately after a station break for commercials by individual stations. The microphone for the Washington commercial was not cut off when the program was switched back to Lewis' home in Maryland where the program originates.

Strouse said the engineer involved was suspended. The station refused to name the announcer and engineer involved.

Radio stations from coast to coast were deluged with telephone calls from listeners protesting about the interruption or seeking an explanation.

Reb Howell, manager of Station KFXJ at Grand Junction, Colo., said dozens of calls flooded his switchboard. He said he immediately warned MBS stations at Denver and Salt Lake City to cut out the bad spot from a transcription of the Lewis commentary they were scheduled to broadcast later.

A spokesman for Station WQXI in Atlanta said Lewis was contacted by telephone after the incident and he advised he probably will offer an apology on tonight's broadcast.

The Atlanta Mutual outlet reported minor reaction, including a call from "a sweet, old lady" who said "Young Man, I just want to know one thing. Did I hear correctly?"

Bell Rate Change Formally Approved

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Formal approval of a new rate schedule for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., was granted yesterday by the Arkansas Public Service Commission.

The PSC granted an annual rate increase of $2,350,000 to the company.

The PSC dismissed the case of Van Buren residents who had complained that they were paying the same rates as Fort Smith. Fort Smith has a dial system and Van Buren a common battery system.

The commission pointed out that Van Buren customers do not pay roll charges to call Fort Smith.

Also dismissed were motions for rehearing on the rate case, filed by both Southwestern Bell and cities which opposed the increase.

The dismissal paves the way for an appeal of the rate order to the courts.

Little Rock City Attorney O. D. Longstrech said the protesting cities will appeal.

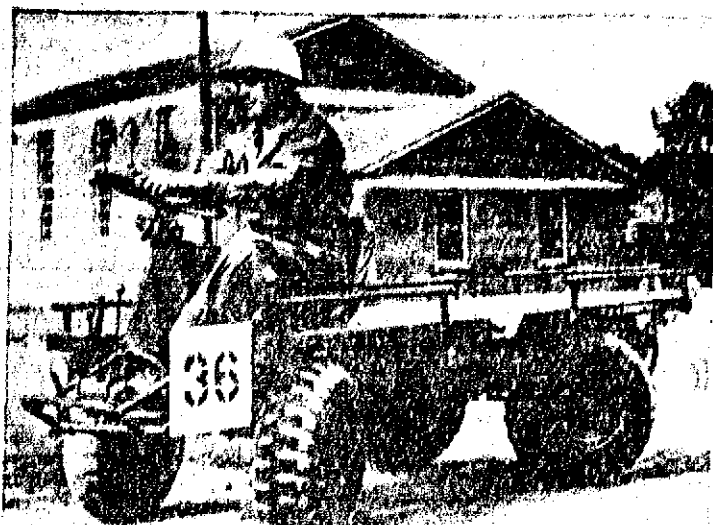

In bird migrations, the male birds tend to reach summer quarters before the females.

MULE'S HIGHLY MOBILE—Vera Hinton, a civilian worker at the Aberdeen, Md., Proving Grounds, shows the latest Army carrier, a mechanical mule. The lightweight, highly mobile vehicle weighs only 740 pounds, and is intended for use by combat troops in forward areas. It has a low silhouette and can be operated from positions on or off the vehicle.

LET IT POUR—There will be few complaints about the weather from happy Kim Klobner, for the umbrella that protects her smiling face from the rain is made of mink. The luxurious umbrella was designed by Roch and Storr in Chicago, Ill.

BLOOD DEPOSIT AT TELLER'S WINDOW—Here's a blood bank that resembles the kind of bank that handles money. Keeping deposits equal to withdrawals is the main object of this Hanol, Italy-China, blood bank. It is equipped with a teller's window to which depositors are directed. Here, a teller takes blood from a depositor who has his arm through the opening.

"Shiremost Famous" Grand Champion Ayrshire, is given a look at his ribbon by Maynard Short, who, with Harold Short, owns the two-year-old sire. It was the second grand championship in two weeks for the West Unity Farms, Ohio, animal. He also won the title in a Waterloo, Iowa, stock show.

PRETTY FIRST LADY—Looking more like a movie star than California's new "First Lady" is Mrs. Robert Eaton, daughter of newly appointed Gov. Goodwin Knight. She, together with her husband and daughter April, will soon move into the executive mansion, and Mr. Eaton will become the governor's secretary.

111, BUT HE LIKES SOME FUN—Walter A. Williams, of Franklin, Tex., the nation's oldest living Confederate veteran (he'll be 111 on Nov. 4), enjoys the Texas State Fair with his family including the "kids." Daughter, Mrs. Willie Mae Bowles, of Houston, right, points out some sights for her father, while son, Bud, 77, pilots his dad's wheel chair. At left is Williams' 80-year-old wife. His ambition is to live until he's 119, like his grandfather. In case you're wondering—that's "Big Tex" in the background, symbol of the fair.

SUPERSONIC SPEEDSTER—Sleek successor to the F-101 Sabrejet is the F-100 Super Sabre, the Air Force's first jet fighter to exceed the speed of sound in level flight. Now in production in Los Angeles, Calif., the F-100 is believed capable of approaching a speed of 600 miles an hour and has a combat radius of more than 600 miles. The new aircraft was considered by air officials to give the U. S. a commanding lead in the global race for jet supremacy.

NO WAY OUT—Even though a broken leg keeps her in traction harness at Omaha (Neb.) Children's Memorial Hospital, Donna Faye Rakow, 11, found no escape from her schoolwork. The hospital employs a regular schoolteacher so that young patients won't fall behind in their studies. Here Donna works out a mathematical problem.

LONG ONE FOR THE ROAD—Almost too classy to risk in highway travel is the $22,857 convertible, top, created by Paris automobile designer Jacques Saoutchik for King Ibn Saud of Arabia. Measuring 24 feet in length on a Cadillac chassis, the car is capable of 100 miles an hour. It is equipped with reclining seats, refrigerator, bar, altimeter, barometer and desk. Interior trim is golden sheep's wool and green leather to match the exterior paint, and the royal colors.

FLYING SEEING-EYE—The Air Force's RC-121C, shown in flight for the first time over Bakersfield, Calif., is the nation's latest powerful radar search plane. The long-range Lockheed transport, identified by the top "shark fin" and lower "big bulge," has increased its fuel capacity to permit it to stay in the air for extended periods.

WHERE REDS GOT RED FACES—This is a general view of the Panmunjom "explanation site" in Korea. The tents house Chinese and North Korean anti-Communist POW's captured by UN forces. When Red troops tried to persuade POW's to return to their Communist-controlled homelands, the prisoners gave them the Chinese version of the Bronx cheer, with a couple of razberries thrown in.

BARREL FULL OF HEALTH—Swollen-bellied children in Haute Volta, West Africa, watch a DDT barrel being rolled into their village by members of the French Territorial Health Service. Malaria is one of the chief causes of infant mortality in the area, but the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund is aiding local health forces in an attempt to reduce rate of children's deaths.

DROP IN SOMETIME—Proving that no part is too small for his Bell 47B helicopter, Pilot Irv Zifferblatt landed it gently on the sun deck of a huge house trailer parked at an airport in Amityville, N. Y. Passenger Douglas Storer waves to surprised bystanders before the 'copter takes off.

DON'T LET GO—European hepcats, in a contest between Berlin and Paris, prove they are just as limber as any of our native jitterbugs. Axel Garinet whips his partner, Bebe Collinet, both from Paris, off the floor in time with a mad musical beat at the Sports Palace in Berlin. However, the French contingent lost to the German team in the "best rubber-legged couple" competition.

EGG-CITEMENT BY THE PECK—Some baseball players have been accused of being "chicken" when they get up to the plate, but here's a batter who really is chicken. It's one of the ball-playing hens that are drawing crowds at the Texas State Fair in Dallas. Fair visitor Ponda Jansen looks on as the hen pecks at fake worm at the end of the bat. "Worm" is connected to electric trigger, which releases bat. A good, firm peck produces a base hit. This sets off another trigger that releases a portion of chicken feed at the other end of the pen. Hen strolls to feed trough, has her snack and returns for another time at bat.

ILLNESS DOESN'T SLOW NAQUIB DOWN—Wearing striped pajamas, Egypt's President Mohammed Naguib takes time to confer with Maj. Gen. Abdel-Hakim Amer, commander in chief of the Egyptian army. The "strong man" of Egypt was suffering from fatigue and kidney trouble on a trip to Alexandria and was confined to his bed. But conferences with his military chiefs had to be carried on.

Fordhams Hyatt Again to Play Football

By WILL GRIMBLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Fourteen months ago he was a few short steps from death, paralyzed, helpless, aflame with fever and already given the last rites of the church.

Tommy Hyatt, 22, left half-back of the Fordham football team, is the almost unbelievable story of Jack Hyatt, 22, left half-back and co-captain of the Fordham team.

On Aug. 24, 1952, the blond Jersey City, N.J., athlete was stricken with an attack of bulimia. It was the kind of blow which would fell an ordinary man.

While lying in bed, choked with mucus and burning with a 107-degree temperature, he heard an attendant tell another not to change the bed clothes — "he won't live long anyway." He was conscious when a priest administered the last rites.

"I got me," he said later. "I was determined to pull through." Hyatt's recovery was miraculous. Still, it seemed impossible that he could ever play another game of football.

Yet, okayed by doctors, he reported for spring practice. Fifteen pounds below his normal 175 pounds, he fought for and won his regular place in the backfield.

"We tried to nurse him along but he wouldn't stand for it," said Coach Ed Danowski. "He insisted on staying out on the field doing sprays when all the others were through. We couldn't stop him."

"Jack has started a couple of games for us and he does plenty of action, but he is still some eight pounds short of his playing weight and not as strong as in 1951 when he led our team in scoring."

"There may be a few things he can't do as well as before, his trouble but the inspiration he is to our boys is something that can't be measured."

He contemplated his lost spread out on the bed. There were three hundred of greenbacks. Five hundred of the tens. That was $5,000. Five hundred of the fives. That was $2,500. One hundred and seventy-five of the twenties. That was $2,500 more.

The money was placed in neat piles. Spike had been sitting, his chair tilted against the wall, contemplating the three piles of money for a long time now. So long that the ash tray on the dresser beside him was a small mountain of cigarette stubs.

Spike had been having a terrific battle with himself. In his way, and in his day, Spike had had a shred of conscience toward his own kind. He had killed it now. Killed it without doing a thing but sitting there alone in the disorderly room, chair tilted, and doing nothing but lighting, puffing and crushing innumerable cigarettes.

Hours ago he had placed the three packs of greenbacks on the bed with the idea that one pack was for himself, one for Linda, one for Sam. The big pack of tens was for himself. Didn't he do all the work? Take all the risks?

Now he had decided that all the packs were for him.

Now he had decided that he was through with Sam Sykes, the coward, for good.

Now he had decided that his girl friend, Chasie, who had gone ultra and at the moment was known as Linda Van Vliet, was doing pretty well for herself without any help from him.

What could either of them do if he just walked out on them?

Sam wasn't in the habit of talking to himself. It wasn't safe even to talk to oneself sometimes, but he had worked himself into a fury of incantations determination now.

"Not a damn thing."

Why not pack up the three packs of greenbacks and get going? A guy had to watch out for himself, didn't he? That meeting in Milwaukee had been an accident, hadn't it? The whole little incident had been a walkaway, hadn't it? In all his life he had never run up against an old duck that was such a pushover as J. G. Stanley. And yet? The cops in Milwaukee had a reputation of being tough. He never wanted to work in that town anyway. Funny how things just happened the way they had.

He guessed he'd blow. Probably California this time. The races at Santa Anita. Maybe back to Florida. Maybe Mexico City. A guy had to have a lot of money these days. What was $10,000?

Well, maybe if he was lucky, he could raise it to $50,000. Maybe if he wasn't so lucky he'd be burning a cigarette in a month.

Spike Adams reached for a time table. A half hour later $10,000 in fives, tens and twenties was neatly packed between layers of shirts in his suitcase.

It might as well be Santa Anita first. And may his old pal, Linda Van Vliet, have all the luck in the world, now that she was in

Camden Beats Hope 37-14 Friday Night

The much more powerful Camden Panthers proved to much for the Hope Bulldogs as they overpowered 27 to 14 in a conference game last night at Hammond Stadium.

Camden broke into the scoring column in the second period when a short kick put the ball on Hope's 16 yard line, where Jeff Smith swept end for the final 16 yards. George Jordan converted. A few minutes later, Huey Lindsey punted 2 yards for a score to climax a 45 yard drive. George Jordan try for extra point was good and Camden went out front 14 to 0 at half time.

The third quarter started with a bang. Huey Lindsey scampered 62 yards on a quick opener on the first play from scrimmage and paid off. Jordan again converted. Camden came right back as Norton Pope scampered around end for 12 yards. Jordan conversion was good.

Camden produced a safety when a Hope ball carrier was tackled in the end zone. This took place in the fourth quarter.

Hope finally broke into the scoring column when a 27 yard pass completion plus 15 yards punting put the ball on the 5 yard line where

Red Heads Don't Cry

by ROY L. FOLEY

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE
SPIKE ADAMS sat in his obscure hotel hideout eighty-five miles away from Milwaukee, Linda Van Vliet, Sam Sykes and the man from whom he had extorted $10,000 in what Spike mulishly regarded as the easiest little shake-down he had ever accomplished.

He contemplated his lost spread out on the bed. There were three hundred of greenbacks. Five hundred of the tens. That was $5,000. Five hundred of the fives. That was $2,500. One hundred and seventy-five of the twenties. That was $2,500 more.

The money was placed in neat piles. Spike had been sitting, his chair tilted against the wall, contemplating the three piles of money for a long time now. So long that the ash tray on the dresser beside him was a small mountain of cigarette stubs.

Spike had been having a terrific battle with himself. In his way, and in his day, Spike had had a shred of conscience toward his own kind. He had killed it now. Killed it without doing a thing but sitting there alone in the disorderly room, chair tilted, and doing nothing but lighting, puffing and crushing innumerable cigarettes.

Hours ago he had placed the three packs of greenbacks on the bed with the idea that one pack was for himself, one for Linda, one for Sam. The big pack of tens was for himself. Didn't he do all the work? Take all the risks?

Now he had decided that all the packs were for him.

Now he had decided that he was through with Sam Sykes, the coward, for good.

Now he had decided that his girl friend, Chasie, who had gone ultra and at the moment was known as Linda Van Vliet, was doing pretty well for herself without any help from him.

What could either of them do if he just walked out on them?

Sam wasn't in the habit of talking to himself. It wasn't safe even to talk to oneself sometimes, but he had worked himself into a fury of incantations determination now.

"Not a damn thing."

Why not pack up the three packs of greenbacks and get going? A guy had to watch out for himself, didn't he? That meeting in Milwaukee had been an accident, hadn't it? The whole little incident had been a walkaway, hadn't it? In all his life he had never run up against an old duck that was such a pushover as J. G. Stanley. And yet? The cops in Milwaukee had a reputation of being tough. He never wanted to work in that town anyway. Funny how things just happened the way they had.

He guessed he'd blow. Probably California this time. The races at Santa Anita. Maybe back to Florida. Maybe Mexico City. A guy had to have a lot of money these days. What was $10,000?

Well, maybe if he was lucky, he could raise it to $50,000. Maybe if he wasn't so lucky he'd be burning a cigarette in a month.

Spike Adams reached for a time table. A half hour later $10,000 in fives, tens and twenties was neatly packed between layers of shirts in his suitcase.

It might as well be Santa Anita first. And may his old pal, Linda Van Vliet, have all the luck in the world, now that she was in society. As for Sam Sykes—well, good luck to Sam too, and may Sam keep his two wives out of each other's paths.

Spike Adams was feeling very pleased with himself.

Several days passed and Linda Van Vliet kept close to her apartment, waiting for two short rings, a long and a short, from Spike Adams.

The train on her sapphire velvet house gown was a sorry sight now.

In her ceaseless pacing she had stepped on it, tripped on it, it had caught on things and she had yanked it free with all the viciousness that was in her. Linda was an artist at expressing her acts and her moods by the train on a gown. She could trail the lace of a train across a theater lobby, drawing room or ballroom with all the artistry of a grand dame born of the purple, and when she was alone in her apartment, as she was now, she could kick at it in a way that had all the characteristies of a vicious boy.

When Spike Adams failed to return Linda decided that one of two things had happened. Either Spike had accomplished the extortion and had doubt-crossed her and Sam, or else he had gone back to Chicago, probably found himself in a tight spot, and had beat it out fast.

She decided to bide her time. She'd bide her time and work on Phil Stanley. She knew men. All men were the same. Phil Stanley at the moment seemed to have gone cool on her, slipped out of her fingers. She'd get him back. She hadn't studied in the school of seduction or nothing.

She'd call Phil now. Right this minute. She'd dicted the ivory enameled French phone on the stand beside her chaise longue with hard, determined twists, then settled back and purred to the operator at the Stanley Construction company.

"Mr. Stanley, please. Mr. Philip Stanley."

She twisted the telephone cord around her finger. She mused that she had never met a millionaire playboy yet who wasn't just a telephone cord in her hands.

"Oh, hello, Phil. This is Linda."

"Yes, Linda, how are you?"

"You SHOULD ask how I am. I haven't seen you for so-o-o-o-long."

"Awfully sorry, I've been terribly busy."

"Business, I suppose."

"Now, Phil, don't be silly— I want awfully to go to the ballet tonight."

"What ballet?"

"The Ballet Russe, of course. Sylvia Staunton and Tod Thorneberry are going. I thought we could be with them afterwards."

"Sorry, Linda, I'd like awfully, but I have a meeting at the club."

Linda had twisted the telephone cord completely around a forefinger. It made her hand look grotesque.

"Tomorrow night then?"

"All right, tomorrow night. I'll call for you at the usual time."

"That's sweet of you, Phil."

Linda's dulcet "Good-bye, Phil."

She sweetly said "Good-bye, Linda," and the click of the receiver.

TV Affects on Kids Varies

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — The Rhode Island Library Association got a disconcerting report on how young people's reading habits are affected by television.

Mrs. M. Isabelle Hall, Providence high school teacher, surveyed sophomore reading habits and got these student comments:

"A masterpiece is something you don't remember."

"Books give you an idea of how to get into trouble but never tell you how to get out of it."

"I'm going to read a book sometime. Last night I saw a quiz show and the contestant didn't get a jackpot because he hadn't read a book."

Billy Blake plunged for the score. All Gray's converted.

The Panthers final score came when Doug Nall passed 20 yards to Bill Brodus for the touchdown. Jordan again converted.

With 25 seconds left in the game, Raymond Churchwell passed to Steve Marley for 30 yards and paid off. "Sammy" Griffin passed to James Caston for the PAT.

Willis, Keck, Conley, Hipp, Wiggins, Connolly, Johnson, and Mosley showed fine line playing for the Panthers.
